About Wellington Youth Orchestra - 'the soul of the city'

Established in 1959, the Wellington Youth Orchestra now encompasses 3 orchestras for players aged between 6 and 25.

Our vision

Through orchestral playing, to empower young Wellingtonians with musical knowledge and instil in them a deep commitment to employ those skills at home and in the wider community, enriching both Wellington and New Zealand's cultural development.

The Orchestra's three primary objectives are to:

- provide the opportunity for young people to play in a symphony orchestra
- develop confidence and skill in the techniques of orchestral playing
- foster an appreciation and understanding of orchestral music.

Every week the Wellington Youth Orchestra and its associated ensembles, the Wellington Youth Sinfonietta and Schola Sinfonica, bring together over 150 young people to rehearse and perform orchestral music. Their aim: to expand and extend their classical music education training and experience. Their motivation: a passion for and commitment to the universal language we call music.
